

Yesterday Today

CRUISE TERMINAL 2

Bronze Age Connections
in a Modern World

The Conference Venue – Cruise Terminal 2

Long considered the 'Port of Kings', Dover has been a royal gateway for centuries and the origins of this strategically important port can be traced back to Roman times as is evident in the 1st century Pharos that overlooks the harbour.

The conference will be held in Cruise Terminal 2 which is located at the seaward end of Admiralty Pier at the western end of the port. It offers unrivalled views across the harbour towards the busy Eastern Docks, the infamous white cliffs and the imposing seafront, all of which are dominated by the giant fortress that is Dover Castle, otherwise known as the 'Key to England'.

If the last conference we held here in 2006 is anything to go by, this venue's superb location and the view from it will be enough to start a myriad of conversations and debate about the evolution of Transmanche connections and much more besides!

This purpose-built cruise terminal was completed in 2000 and offers:-

- ▶ A spacious and comfortable auditorium
- ▶ Spacious and comfortable dining facilities
- ▶ Large reception area with space for static displays and publishers
- ▶ Washrooms including disabled facilities
- ▶ Lifts, stairs and escalators to all floors
- ▶ Wheelchair-friendly ramps and walkways.
- ▶ Luggage storage area
- ▶ Ample parking
- ▶ Outside smoking area

